As a research faculty member, the candidate will be expected to develop a research program, establish collaborative projects and obtain some salary support, and associated indirect costs, from externally sponsored grants and contracts. In addition, the individual will be expected to participate in DVM/Graduate teaching. A small percentage of time will be devoted to faculty affairs and committee service.

Qualifications: Candidates must have a PhD with a minimum of 3-5 years of postdoctoral training with a research focus in the areas of behavioral neuroscience, with special consideration given to work in addiction. Experience in the area of intravenous drug self-administration models and transgenerational epigenetics is desirable. A history of extramural funding is required, and preference will be given to applicants with established research programs. Experience in teaching is needed; topics of interest include cell biology, neuroanatomy, pharmacology, or physiology. The position is available immediately and applications will be accepted until April 30, 2018.

Application Information: Candidates should submit a curriculum vitae, the names of three references, and a letter of intent detailing your career goals. Submit applications electronically via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/49719>
