robust pre-clinical and clinical research programs, providing excellent services in the Hospital, and maintaining a strong teaching and outreach program. The Large Animal Medicine service is supported by experienced, licensed technicians (LVT's) during regular and after-hours, with four internal medicine residents in a comprehensive, state-of-the-art teaching and referral hospital. The Cornell University Hospital for Animals is equipped with extensive therapeutic and diagnostic equipment including portable ultrasound, video-endoscopy, point-of-care testing, 1.5 tesla MRI, 16-slice CT, nuclear imaging and easy access to the Cornell Animal Health Diagnostic Center.

Candidates must have a DVM or equivalent degree. Board certified in large animal internal medicine (ACVIM or ECVIM) and board eligible or board certified in large animal critical care (ACVECC or ECVECC) required.

The successful candidate will assist in expansion of the Emergency Critical Care (ECC) rotation, providing more learning opportunities for students in ECC. This individual will contribute to lecture and laboratory offerings in the Large Animal Medicine sections and contribute to improvements of our peri-operative emergency patient care. In addition, this individual will help with the expansion of the ECC service and expertise, providing more learning opportunities for fellows and residents in ECC.

Cornell University embraces diversity and seeks candidates who will create a climate that attracts persons of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. The University seeks to meet the needs of dual-career couples, has a Dual Career program, and is a member of the Upstate New York Higher Education Recruitment Consortium to assist with dual-career searches.

Cornell is in Ithaca on the shores of Cayuga Lake in the beautiful Finger Lakes region of New York. Ithaca is a vibrant city with art museums, theaters, and a diverse selection of restaurants. It is within driving distance of several large metropolitan centers, award-winning wineries, and downhill skiing areas. Ithaca is a nature-lovers paradise with ample opportunities for outdoor activities. Easy campus-to-campus bus transportation allows one to explore or develop collaborations in NYC while enjoying the "Ithaca is Gorges" lifestyle.
